

Sennet – some useful information

Sennet Insurance Services Limited was started by Paul James in 1994 and was incorporated with Companies House on 6th January 1995 as Paul felt that the insurance industry needed specialist insurance providers to cater for new and emerging occupation sectors.

In 1997 Paul set up Sennet Professional Indemnity Limited which was incorporated with Companies House on 3rd April 1997. The aim was to provide specialist indemnity insurance to the existing client base of the first company and cover existing professions, new and developing professions with the specialist legal insurance they required in a changing and legally minded economic world. The new name gave greater focus on the professional indemnity insurance market sector in which the two firms operated.

Sennet Professional Indemnity Ltd quickly became the day to day trading title.

In 2004 Paul appointed Rob Ward, with whom he had worked in London for many years, as a director of Sennet Insurance Services Limited with the view of winding down his interest in that enterprise and joining his family in France.

In 2005 Paul decided to take early retirement from Sennet Insurance Services Limited and sold a controlling interest of 55% to Rob Ward, resigning his directorship in September of that year. He permitted Rob to continue to use the title Sennet Professional Indemnity Ltd because that was the well-known trading title he had built up over the years.

Unfortunately, over the ensuing few years it became impossible for Paul to remain with the Sennet Insurance Services Limited and the remaining shares were sold to David Kenyan Vaughan.

Throughout this period Sennet Professional Indemnity Limited remained under the sole ownership of Paul James.

In 2009 it came to our attention that Rob and David were continuing to use the title Sennet Professional Indemnity Ltd and Sennet Professional Indemnity without our permission. The use of these titles had not been approved or permitted by Paul since leaving Sennet Insurance Services Limited, and was contrary to legal practice and not in keeping with insurance regulatory requirements and they were forced to cease the use of these names.

Sennet Insurance Services Ltd has recently sold its' client base to Bennett Christmas and has to the best of our knowledge subsequently ceased trading under that name.

Sennet Professional Indemnity Ltd is a complete separate and independent trading entity which is currently trading offering you professional and personal service.

At no point has Sennet Professional Indemnity Limited ever purported to be part of or associated to Sennet Insurance Services Limited but has remained an entirely separate company.
